Finding weighted mean in excel formulas worksheet

Finding the weighted average with SUMPRODUCT

Calculate weight in excel. Formula of calculating average in excel. Calculate weight in weighted average

In the below-mentioned example, I have a dataset in column A which contains the brand name, column B (Price of each Brand), column C (Quantity Sold) & column D (Sales Value). 2. Weighted Average $WA = \frac{\sum (Value * Weight)}{\sum (Weight)}$. So, instead of multiplying each value by its weight individually, you supply two arrays in the SUMPRODUCT formula (in this context, an array is a continuous range of cells), and then divide the result by the sum of weights: $=\text{SUMPRODUCT}(\text{values_range}, \text{weights_range}) / \text{SUM}(\text{weights_range})$. Supposing that the values to average are in cells B2:B6 and weights in cells C2:C6, our Sumproduct Weighted Average formula takes the following shape: $=\text{SUMPRODUCT}(B2:B6, C2:C6) / \text{SUM}(C2:C6)$. To see the actual values behind an array, select it in the formula bar and press the F9 key. What is weighted average? How to Calculate Weighted Average in Excel? We can use the SUM function in Excel to calculate the number below the fraction line (6). A disadvantage of Weighted Average: Sum functions are not a better option to calculate the weighted average value if you have a large number of datasets or elements in a table. Things to Remember About Weighted Average in Excel: SUMPRODUCT returns the #VALUE! error value if array arguments are of different sizes. But what if some of the values have more "weight" than others and consequently contribute more to the final average? In other words, each value to be averaged is assigned a certain weight. To find out the difference between Normal and Weighted Average, you can calculate the normal average in cell C9, i.e. $=\text{AVERAGE}(B2:B6)$. When using either the SUM or SUMPRODUCT function to find weight average in Excel, weights do not necessarily have to add up to 100%. Let's apply both the sum-product & sum function in the cell $\#A1C7$. In mathematics and statistics, you calculate weighted average by multiplying each value in the set by its weight, then you add up the products of $\text{ysae dna drawrofthgiarts yrev si alumrof MUS eht hguohtlA}$. $0.73 = 0.73 * 0.09 + 0.04 * 0.1 + 0.02 * 0.09$. The result is 0.09446 . Now, let's calculate the weighted average using the SUMPRODUCT function. The formula is $=\text{SUMPRODUCT}(B2:B6, C2:C6) / \text{SUM}(C2:C6)$. The result is 0.09446 , which is the same as the result obtained using the sum-product & sum function. This shows that the two methods give the same result.
